

IWG Relaunches with Georgia Lottery

Follows integration of the Company's InstantRGS with IGT's iLottery platform

Thursday, February 15, 2024: Instant Win Gaming (IWG), a leading supplier of instant games to NASPL and WLA-member lotteries, has relaunched with the Georgia Lottery Corporation following the successful integration of its InstantRGS (remote game server) with IGT's iLottery platform.

The move further strengthens the long-term relationship between IWG and IGT, with the Georgia Lottery, and most importantly its players, set to benefit from IWG's pipeline of InstantGames innovations which will complement the instant portfolio being supplied by IGT.

IWG's popular Cash Expander game was the first instant delivered. The Georgia Lottery version has been localized to be specifically familiar to Georgia players.

The Georgia Lottery launch marks IWG's second integration with IGT for a U.S. lottery having previously partnered to supply instant games to the Kentucky Lottery. In addition, IWG and IGT have previously worked together to supply instants to the Belgium National Lottery.

Rhydian Fisher, IWG CEO, said: "It's fantastic to have relaunched our eInstants in Georgia, a move that will further strengthen the Lottery's Diggi Games offering and provide players with the very latest in eInstant entertainment. We're excited for the future ahead with the Georgia Lottery, and our supply of games for their players."

Gretchen Corbin, Georgia Lottery Corporation President and CEO, said: "The Georgia Lottery Corporation is excited to introduce IWG's InstantGames to our valued players. These new games will complement our current Diggi Game offerings, bringing players new and exciting experiences. Our Diggi Games contribute to the Georgia Lottery's mission of providing revenues for the purpose of funding Georgia's Pre-K and the HOPE Scholarship programs. Our corporation appreciates this collaboration with IWG and IGT to help us grow this important category of games."
